Description

A superb large Art Deco silver photo frame. (Please refer to measurements below for precise size). The frame is decorated with precise engine-turned engraving, so popular in the early 20th Century and a style that has never gone out of vogue. The sides are in smooth polished silver and the back and stand are made of a dark ebonised wood. The frame is glazed. A very smart frame indeed, and a super gift, especially for a wedding or anniversary. Hallmarked along the edge as sterling silver, Birmingham 1933, with the makers mark for Charles S Green & Co Ltd. Condition: In good vintage condition. There are a few very minor dents to the sides and one tiny dent to the bottom front edge. There are a few marks to the wooden back where it faces the front, not seen once a photograph is place. The back stand hinge is slightly loose but working well and fully supporting. (All of the above are very minor issues and mentioned purely for accuracy.) Measurements: Height: 12" Width: 9" Front Aperture 8" x 10" (28.5 x 21 cm) Rear Opening 12" x 9" (30.5cm x 23 cm) Weight: 745 grams All measurements are approximate.
