Description

This is an antique office desk chair. An English, oak drawing room elbow seat, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. Inviting desk chair, ideal for the drawing room or home office. Displaying a desirable aged patina and in good order. Select oak stocks present a fine grain interest with wisps of medullary rays. Warm caramel hues accentuate the serpentine form of the armchair. Gently rolled, shaped upper rail situated above a five post back rest. Loop arms enclose the seat squab, with forward orientated supports. Finished with a later, mid-century faux leather cushion and accentuated with press stud trim. Raised upon four elongated cabriole legs with splayed rears, and being further united with an H-stretcher. Maker's mark to the base for B. Maggs & Co of Clifton, Bristol. This is a superb antique office desk chair, with appealing colour and a striking oak frame. Solid joints and construction, delivered ready for the home.
