Description

A 19th Century English Rosewood Tilt Top Centre Table. This attractive table has a quadripartite platform base linked by four turned columns to the tilting top. The top is veneered with rosewood of very good figure and colour. The four splayed legs retain their original brass box castors and the table stands very well, being of neat and pleasing proportions. The tilting top allows the piece to be stored against a wall when not in use. A very practical and decorative centre table.
