Description

A mid 18th century Chippendale period pine country house double bookcase cabinet featuring a fluted and ornate fret-carved cornice with large carved acorn topped urn finials above a dot & dentil moulded frieze and twin pairs of astragal glazed doors enclosing adjustable shelves, on a projecting base with a long drawer over a pair of moulded panel doors to each side and all raised on a plinth base. Super quality especially to the fretwork, a very similar pattern of which can be seen in Thomas Chippendale's pattern book 'The Gentleman and Cabinet-maker's Director', in good overall condition with minor small losses to some of the dentils and some losses to the mouldings, we can arrange for these to be replaced if required, other marks as expected commensurate with age & use, locks probably replaced but come with key for the upper doors (there are no locks to drawers), unusual brass door catches, possibly previously had a limed finish. Splits vertically down the middle with metal pins to locate top cornice together, can also be used as two separate narrower bookcases. Please feel free to request more photos as we are limited in the number we can upload. The overall dimensions are 230 cm (90.6") high, 186 cm (73.2") wide, and 54 cm (21.3") deep.
