Description

A smart and beautifully made antique mahogany card / console table. This was made in England, it is in the Georgian style and dates from the 1890-1900 period. The quality is outstanding, this is a lovely size and makes a very useful console table when not being used as a games table. The back legs open out on a hinged mechanism, the top spins round and flip open to reveal the original tapestry playing surface. The mahogany top has a beautiful shaped and cross banded edges, it stands on cabriole legs with shell carving at the knees, terminating in claw and ball feet. We have had this re-polished, the condition of the mahogany is superb. The tapestry playing surface is also in good condition, with just some minor wear.
