Description

This brass ceiling or centre light from the early half of the last century is not the normal example. This one is heavy, solid and well made. It has 5 branches and a substantial brass chain that can hang from the rose or hook on your ceiling. It has had a light clean, if you wanted it to look brighter it is easily possible with further cleaning, but many may well prefer the mellowed appearance it currently has. The castings are crisp and well detailed. We have had this on the bench and it is in full working order as can be seen in one of the pictures. You should have this checked by your electrician before use however to ensure compliance with current regulations. The height mentioned below is without the chain length. A keen price for this quality of only £165.00. Dont hesitate to give us a call 01565 874075
