Description

This gorgeous 19th-century bookcase on cupboard is a quintessential example of Victorian elegance, crafted from exquisite mahogany. The bookcase features a stunning array of details that highlight both its craftsmanship and timeless beauty. The upper section of the piece is a glazed bookcase, showcasing three adjustable shelves behind glass doors, allowing for both protection and display of your cherished books and collectibles. The glass doors are framed with beautifully detailed moulding, adding a touch of sophistication and refinement to the design. Below the glazed bookcase, the cupboard section offers both functionality and style. It includes a single drawer and a double-door cupboard, which opens to reveal a singular shelf inside, providing ample storage space. The cupboard doors are particularly striking, with magnificent figuring and decorative cross-banding that enhance the piece's visual appeal. The bookcase on cupboard stands on decorative turned legs adorned with reeded decoration, adding an extra layer of elegance and stability. The piece is finished with original brass handles and a key, maintaining its historical authenticity and charm. In terms of condi...
