Description

For your consideration is this super stylish Art Deco Wood and Glass Ferranti Synchronous Mantle Clock With Working Original Movement, dating to 1938. A rare example of it's type, this Ferranti (1932 - 1957 Manchester, UK) clock was made circa 1938. This clock has had some fresh oil/grease and is working well. The advantage of electric clocks is you just plug and go, with no winding or batteries to change. They keep perfect time too and are virtually silent. This clock is working well and comes with plug and brand new vintage style cable. Double glass frontage, flat circle with domed glass on top held tight by four bearing headed screws. Overall condition is great showing only minimal signs of use.
