Description

The field of this carpet has many shades of terracotta red, streaked with some richer tomato red. This is not repair, but how the carpet was originally made and is in fact a very attractive feature of antique handmade carpets. The effect is to break up the repetitiveness of the overall "Herati" design and give the eye some relief, while contributing some drama and interest. It's a very effective technique and was perfected over hundreds of years so that although it looks spontaneous and random, there is very much an art to it. A warm and gentle carpet which will be decorative in an understated manner. Price includes VAT @ 20% 10'1" x 13'8"
