Description

A rare example of a Sussex rocking chair with turned frame and presumably original rush seat. This ebonised beech rocking chair, with imitation bamboo spindles to the back and a bobbing type turned top rail, is a petite but strong and comfortable chair, as the best designed seats always are. Although datable to the second half/end of the 19th century, this rocking chair has an undeniable rural vernacular appearance of earlier days. Wear in keeping with the age and the use. 42cm W x 44cm D x 100cm H (37cm seat H).
