Description

Heals Tilden Antique Oak Refectory Dining Table A superb quality, solid antique oak dining table by Heals of London around 1915 and from their Tilden range of furniture, named after Philip Tilden the architect who designed the range. This style of Heals antique dining table is known as the Churchill table as a pair of these were supplied to Sir Winston Churchill's home, Chartwell. In superb condition and still in the original finish, featuring gun barrel turned legs with a wide flat stretcher. The table top is a lovely and thick and the Heals large ivory makers label is inset under the top. An excellent example.
