Description

A rare set of four 19th century mahogany hall chairs by Holland & Sons of London. The squared shield shaped backs each with a vacant recessed oval panel above solid seats, raised on turned front legs and sabre rear legs, each stamped to the underside of the seat rails 'Holland & Sons' and with the journeyman's stamp 'Randall'. More photos available on request. Overall dimensions at the largest points are approximately 42.5cm wide x 47.5cm deep x 88.5cm high (16 3/4in wide x 18 3/4in deep x 34in high) Seat height - 44cm (17 3/8in) Ref: 0734 It is unusual to find the name of the actual journeyman marked on furniture, however a set of 13 early Victorian Royal Interest dining chairs by Holland & Sons were also marked for the journeyman Randall and further stamped VR and GR V with the Royal Crowns. Holland and Sons rose from their origins in the early 19th century to become, by the middle years of the 19th century, a rival to Gillow and one of the greatest English cabinet makers. The firm was first established as Taprell and Holland in 1803 by its two founders, Stephen Taprell and William Holland. Following a brief period in which the company was known as Taprell, Ho...
