Description

This is an antique water bucket. A Burmese, silvered copper fireside store, dating to the Georgian period, circa 1800. Eye-catchingly weathered appearance with a fascinating decorative finish. Displays a desirable aged patina, commensurate with age and use. Hand crafted from silvered copper, with remnants of verdigris and amber hues. Distinctive 'elephant foot' form with wide lower bowl. Tactile, engraved handle articulates within broad, bonded mounts. Rim edge and body accentuated with chased pattern detail to their circumference. Ornate medallions present animal characters upon etched leaf backgrounds. Well suited for use as a distinctive fireside store, suitable for all fuel types. This is a delightfully patinated antique water bucket, offering an appealing opportunity as a coal or log bucket or waste paper basket. Delivered ready for the home.
