Description

This Set of 19thc Mahogany Library Steps are of a good chunky design. Standing on good sized finely turned legs, with paneled sides. The tops have a decorative reeded edge moulding, and the fronts are embellished with an Ebony line inlay. The top flap lifts up to reveal a decent storage area, and the middle draw also provides additional storage. This piece was originally a commode, but sometime in its life has been converted to incorporate the drawer. The tooled green leather tops are nicely distressed with a subtle fade to their middles that work so well on this piece. The generously proportioned brass handles add further decorative appeal. Would work well as a bedside piece or anywhere in the home used as a lamp table. Circa 19thC Dimensions Width 17in/43cm Depth 32in/81cm Height 30in/76cm
