Description

Antique Irish green leather wingchairs These Antique Irish green leather wingchairs were made in the late Victorian period, circa 1880. The good-sized chairs with the Irish carved cabriole legs to the front, and hairy carved cabriole legs to the rear. Both wingchairs have been recovered in fine English leather hide, we upholstered them in russet leather before hand dying them and finishing them in in the antique finish. A very skilled process that takes much patience and care. The finish would make you believe that the leather is original, and now can be used for future generations to enjoy. As you sit into these Antique Irish green leather wingchairs it is so lovely as the cushion compresses and you mould into the cushion. Imagine owning these superb wingchairs and the pleasure you will get, especially when your family and friends are vying to try them. These chairs are matched. 96cms wide across the arms 34ins 92cms deep 34ins 107cms high 42ins 59cms seat height cushions plumped 23ins.
