A beautiful, elegant George II chest of drawers with a built-in desk/secretaire section to the top drawer. The secretaire drawers pull out and a drop down to reveal a green felt writing area with small drawers and compartments perfect for storing documents and writing materials. Below this are two small drawers and two larger drawers operated by brass handles. Its an early example dating George II C.1720. Due to its age, it's been gently, sympathetically cleaned to maintain its character and lifelong patina which really does give this piece an authentic look beautiful look. There is a key present for the desk section. Condition is persistence with age showing signs of usage with a few old good repairs. All works as it should.
