Description

This is a rare item which I am offering for the first time. The Shahsavan are an ancient tribe who migrated for the centuries in the Caucasian Mountains, eventually settling in the towns and villages of Azerbaijan and North-West Persia. They produced a range of weavings for domestic use including saddle bags, storage bags and rugs. This Shahsavan Soumac Bagface has lovely natural dyes and a jewel-like appearance. The field is composed of offset rows of finely drawn fern trees on a sapphire field which is framed by narrow borders. The main yellow border is decorated with an unusual stylised running dog geometric border. The whole composition is beautifully drawn. Recently cleaned in generally good condition. This piece is both collectible a. and would make a lovely item of interior decoration.
