Description

Late 19th/20th Century Silver Plated Punch Bowl * H: 21cm (8.3") Di: 27cm (10.6") Silver-plated punch bowls from the late 19th to early 20th century are exquisite examples of craftsmanship. These ornate bowls, once central to social gatherings for serving punch, have now become coveted collectibles and treasured antiques and are a wonderful insight into the Social History of the time. They are distinguished by intricate designs that reflect the artistic tastes of the Victorian and Edwardian periods, frequently featuring floral motifs, grapevine decorations, and lion head handles. The bowls vary in size and shape, with some displaying ornamental feet or intricate handles, and a unique hammered finish that contributes to their textured charm and aesthetic appeal.
