Description

A proper piece of antique oak! An absolutely lovely 18th century oak coffer or blanket box. This lovely ancient piece of furniture could surely tell some tales! The hinged lid opens to a large interior with a good storage capacity. The front of the piece features carved detail and has been fitted with ringlet handles to form the illusion of drawers. The coffer has had a range of wonderful repairs and modification over the years which have only added to its charm and character, especially the reinforcement bar that someone has lovingly added possibly 200 years ago! That's the reason that we purchased the piece & it still exists! Please see the other antique furniture we have listed. This is a bargain.
