Description

An early 19th century country made oak chair, which could perhaps be loosely described as 'Chippendale style', with a beautifully carved back splat, and carved cabriole fore legs terminating in substantial ball and claw feet. It has a drop in seat upholstered in crewel work fabric from Coromandel Crewel. The design of the back splat is attractive and unusual, and the shape of the arm supports is rather pleasing. Condition: Good condition throughout with a nice colour and patina. There appears to be a split in one arm but it is stable. The chair is solid with minimal movement in the structure. The seat has been newly recovered. The seat height is approximately 46cm. Mainland UK delivery (excluding the Scottish highlands) is included in the price - if you would like a quote for delivery elsewhere, or if you would like to collect the item yourself, please get in touch. Delivery of furniture usually takes between 7 and 21 days from order, though can sometimes take longer. If you need an item by a certain date please speak to us prior to ordering and we'll try to help.
