Description

An outstanding and rare late 18th Century Mahogany Demi Lune card Table with folding parquetry top having satinwood banding and fine black and white inlay. The frieze with further inlay and Yew wood panels to the tops of the legs. Standing on inlaid Square tapered legs terminating in spade feet. In very good original condition, retaining untouched original hinges and of lovely burnished colour and surface. A board has been added to the underneath at some stage, we decided to leave it in position as it is an old addition and dose not detract from the piece. The green baize is very old, possibly original, with tooled border.
