Description

A good quality and elegant antique Edwardian mahogany & inlaid circular three tier occasional table with glass butlers tray top dating from circa 1910. In beautifully figured mellow mahogany extensively decorated with satinwood inlay in a Sheraton revival design. The circular mahogany moulded butlers tray top is decorated with satinwood stringing and a dentil gallery and features its original decorative brass handles. It sits on a raised centre to the top tier of the table, ensuring it does not slide off. The table stands on four fine tapering out splayed inlaid legs, which are united by a lower shelf. Ideal for use in the living or dining room, as it is both multi-functional and decorative, either as a drinks tray or occasional / side table. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Good condition with good colour and patina. Some scratches to the glass. Dimensions: Height: 81cm Width: 49cm Depth: 49cm Width at Handles: 56cm
