Description

This is a fine quality antique Victorian William IV design four poster bed, of colonial Raj Anglo-Indian origin, circa 1870, which fits either a custom size mattress, up to 5ft 10" wide by 6ft 10" long (with the slats at their original height), or a UK king size mattress (5ft wide by 6ft 6" long) with the slats lowered, in excellent original condition. The style of this Victorian four poster bed was influenced by design elements from the William IV period (1830 – 1837) in Great Britain. It was common for furniture designs to emulated across the British colonies during the Victorian period. This is evident by the scroll shaped pediment on the headboard, the circular shaped pieced panels to the head and footboard, and elaborate tulip carved vertical supports to the four legs. The headboard incorporates four circular shaped pierced fretwork carved panels, with floral carved supports above and below, flanked by vertical bars, running the length of the moulded headboard frame. A decorative William IV design floral scroll arch shaped headboard pediment sits atop of the headboard. The William IV design four poster bed incorporates elegant moulded side rails & frame side ...
