Description

A charming Art Deco musical cigarette box in the form of a piano. When wound, it plays "Silent Night" and two little lights driven by batteries come on. At the same time, the metal cigarette holders raise up to offer a cigarette. It is very unusual, works well and almost certainly German. The piano itself has inlaid marquetry defining the piano keys and other decoration. Overall the wood used is beech. There is a gilded plaque on the piano lid which shows a violin with a wreath and a music score. All in good condition commensurate with age. We would be happy to send a little video showing how it works.
