Description

Late Regency Mahogany tilt top breakfast table resting on a column base with four legs terminating on castored paw feet. This is a beautiful table - it is solid and sturdy. The top has some veneer missing to the centre and there are some light water stain marks. Despite this - it remains a beautiful piece and great quality. When the table is in the tilt top position, there is a bar which needs to be squeezed together to release the top. If you're looking for an authentic antique breakfast table that has some minor war wounds - then this may be for you!
