Japanese Edo Wood and Champleve Cloisonne Enamel Netsuke / Manju Kagamibuta (Mirror Lid) Caduceus. Circa 1850 (possibly earlier). Japanese Edo Period. Finely decorated metal champleve / cloisonne Kagamibuta disk lid has design that appears to be a Caduceus, or something similar (a "T" shape with something wrapped around it). Possibly the netsuke belonged to a doctor. An early diminutive and finely enamelled manju with enamels in turquoise, greens and yellow. An extremely rare Masterpiece, made by a highly skilled artisan in the early era of mastering cloisonne techniques in Japan.
