Description

An impressive Victorian safe crafted by Thomas Skidmore of Wolverhampton, presented in excellent antique condition. The safe features a heavy hinged door adorned with the original painted finish and a functional key, complemented by a brass handle, a brass plaque bearing the maker's name, a sliding escutcheon, and a brass coat of arms. Although it retains the internal drawers, the keys for these are missing. This sizable safe, in superb condition, promises to protect your valuables from both theft and fire, making it an ideal addition to any home or office. Thomas Skidmore & Son safes hold a special place in the history of safe manufacturing. They are known for their sturdy construction and intricate designs. Established in 1850 in Wolverhampton, England, Thomas Skidmore & Son became known for their fireproof and theft-proof safes, which was a significant advancement at the time. The company's reputation for quality and innovation helped it become a notable name in the British safe industry.
