Description

Rarely found in Satinwood, this is fabulous quality tea caddy in a sarcophagus shape standing on four original turned bun feet with cross banding to the front and sides. The interior is an absolute joy, with the central panel of the lid intricately inlaid and either side matching the lids of the two removable tea cannisters. Green tea would be stored in one cannister and Black in the other, they would be blended to taste in the central cut crystal mixing bowl and transferred to the teapot for brewing. The glass bowl in this example is totally original, which really is rare, they are usually later replacements and usually molded glass. This one is created from heavy crystal and a valuable piece of glass in it's own rights, hence why they are often missing as they are sold off or broken. The bowl is in excellent condition with one tiny rim chip mentioned purely for accuracy. The exterior of the caddy has a really gorgeous nutty colour which comes from 200 years of living and only comes with aging. A very heavy piece, but not to worry, our included worldwide shipping is still included; this piece will ship TNT in the UK and via FedEx elsewhere. Excellent condition, meas...
