Description

A Victorian burr walnut sewing or lamp table, the circular top, with carved edge, is inlaid with harebells. The top which opens to reveal a maple fitted interior, is supported by three fluted turned legs down to a base with carved centre finial and scroll feet with china castors. There is a red velvet bag for sewing materials that can either be shown let down or tucked under if not needed, the table is also a good height for a lamp. Good colour and patina with excellent burr veneers. English or possibly Irish with the carved edge Circa 1860.
