Description

A Geo I oak dresser base, the three board top above a deep mould, three drawers with brass handles and escutcheons above a bold waist mould similar to the one underneath the top and panelled ends. The dresser stands on turned baluster and block legs, good colour and patina, the back legs have been spliced at some time (see photo) otherwise a nice good value dresser base. You will note there appears to be a sliver of moulding missing off the bottom right drawer, this has now been found and put back, see later photo. English Circa 1730.
