Description

An 18th-century Swedish overmantel mirror showcases parcel giltwood carving on its original eau-de-nil paint. This combination creates a striking design that complements a variety of interiors. The mirror features its original mercury plate, which displays some signs of foxing, adding character and a sense of history to the piece. Intricate leaf motifs adorn the frame's surface, enhancing its visual appeal while reflecting the artistry of Swedish craftsmanship. Set against an eau-de-nil painted panel, the mirror further enriches its character and depth. Such a piece would serve as a stunning focal point in any room, combining functionality with historic charm. Height - 125cm Width - 110cm Depth- 6cm
