Description

This fine and rare example of an early 19th-century British gentleman's calling card case is beautifully veneered in pale shimmering mother of pearl, and delicately hand-engraved to a high standard. The main front panel shows a pheasant being set up by a gun dog, with a tree and foliage in the distance. This superb central panel has a small patterned border which is further enhanced with fine floral corner motifs. The reverse has a similar decoration apart from the centre panel which on this side has floral decoration. The case is in very good condition with a fully working hinge and a button release clasp. The interior retains its original red velvet lining. British, circa 1830
Height 10.2cm x width 7.8cm x depth 1.2cm
