Description

Early 20th Century English Hand Carved Fairground Fragments A closely matched pair of hand carved pine sectioned English fairground decorative fragments. Original paint still present, carved intricately and with a highly skilled finish. These items differ in design as they are carved individually. We hazard a guess that they would have sat across the top of some form of fairground amusement ride of sorts. They are likely to have been part of a much larger collection. These fragments are highly decorative and would fit above a doorway entrance maybe. Size in inches: H 20" x W 43" x D 2.5" Origin: England Date: Early 20th Century Condition: Aged This item is over 100 years old, still in complete original condition. There is wear and tear present in the form of faded surface and paint, discolouring in sections and general aged weathering of all this item as shown, they are however solid and firmly in place that shows great craftsmanship of its time. Please review all the photos provided as part of this advert, close-up photos have been provided to show its condition of loss of surface detail. We strongly suggest reviewing all the photos provided as part of this adver...
