Description

Very interesting estate made William and Mary walnut bureau cabinet. Coming in two parts, the top has three drawers over a fall front behind which is a series of drawers. Beneath the fall front are two further drawers and another fall which rests on pull out lopers, behind which is a fitted interior. The bottom section has three drawers, standing on four square tapering painted front legs, a shelf and two back legs united by a panelled back board. Interestingly, the secondary timber is elm, as can be seen on the drawer fronts and interior. This is a really interesting and probably unique piece of English furniture
