Description

A fabulous antique Victorian gypsy ring from the late 1800s fashioned in 18ct gold and set with a trilogy of natural opal cabochons (approx. 0.45ct total) with four twinkling old mine cut diamonds nestled in between. Opal is the birthstone of October. Their magic has been revered throughout history, desired for their enchanting rainbow of colours that flow and dance across the surface of the stone, evoking the beauty of planet earth or the aurora borealis, with a burning orange sunset glowing behind. It's in excellent condition, displaying a mesmerising trilogy of opals representing past, present and future or those three little words – "I love you".
