Description

A 19th-century dial clock with a stylish octagonal case. The dial is signed for R Talbot, Ealing. I can't find details of this maker so it may be the name of a retailer or possibly the name of a shop where it resided. The case is in rosewood with mother of pearl inlay. It has a good quality 8 day fusee movement with a 12" painted dial and spade hands. The case is in good condition with only a very small section of inlay missing. The movement is in good running order and keeping good time. Collection preferred but we can arrange courier delivery at cost.
