Description

A set of 3 miniature antique copper Jelly Moulds dating from the mid to late 19th Century. Each one measures approximately 2" (5cm) tall x 2" (5cm) wide. There are two turret design moulds and another fluted design. One is stamped '65' and another has initials G.C.C. They have been well used and have developed a lovely patina. We have only gently cleaned the copper to retain the patina but they could be polished further if desired. There are no major damages but there are some signs of age and use and some small dents and dings here and there but overall they display well. Approximate Measurements: Base Diameter : 6" (15cm) Height : 7 1/2" (19cm) The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
