Description

An unusual mahogany wall clock of octagonal shape and with brass inlay. The front of the case is veneered with mahogany and inlaid with brass scrollwork. The brass bezel features a convex glass and can be secured into place using the lockable side door. There is also a further access door to the base of the case. The single fusee 8 day movement has an anchor escapement and with blued steel matching hands. The painted dial is signed Kleyser, 4 Goswell Street. This street in London is now called Goswell Road and is located in the area of Clerkenwell. An area very well known for Clockmaking. C.1835 A fine example.
