Description

Technical Description A superb pair of 19th century overshoot glass wine carafes dating to c1880. They have gilded rims and can hold over 1 bottles of wine each. Idea for dinner table or display. Date & Origin Boston & Sandwich USA, c1880. Condition Excellent, clean and clear, no chips cracks or restoration. Minor loss of gilt around the rims. Dimensions Height: 18.3cm Diameter: 11cm Comments Overshot glass was made during the Victorian era in many different locations, including England, Europe and the USA where Boston & Sandwich made some outstanding decorative and functional pieces. It is created by rolling the hot glass in tiny pieces of broken glass and then reheated to remove the sharp edges producing a very rustic look and feel. One of a number of superb examples from the amazing glass collection of John and Poppy Stallebrass.
