Description

Elevate your collection with this elegant mid-Victorian skeleton clock, a stunning example of 19th-century craftsmanship. Its substantial cut brass plates, crafted in a graceful Cathedral style, beautifully showcase the intricate inner workings of the clock. Complementing this design is a silvered engraved chapter ring, adding a touch of refinement and timeless beauty. This skeleton clock features a passing strike mechanism, sounding a bell on the hour with a clear and resonant tone. It is a functional and aesthetically pleasing centrepiece, offering a harmonious blend of practicality and artistry. Adding to its allure, the clock rests on its original oval polished ebonised wooden base, protected by its original glass dome, ensuring both preservation and a visually striking display. This clock is a testament to Victorian innovation, where functionality met artistic expression. This skeleton clock is not just a timekeeper; it's a work of art and a conversation piece, ideal for collectors and admirers of Victorian-era ingenuity. Add this exceptional piece to your collection today. Serviced and guaranteed for 3 years. Height: 17 ½" or 44 cm CIRCA. 1860 Provenance: Pri...
