Description

This is an antique sterling silver sugar caster, also known as a sugar shaker, dating to the mid-19th century. The piece features a classical urn-shaped design, elegantly balanced on a pedestal base, with detailed engraving of scrollwork and floral patterns. The domed lid includes pierced holes for dispensing and is topped with a finial. The engraved initials and date on the body suggest it was likely a commemorative or personal gift, reflecting the craftsmanship and artistry of the Victorian silver-making tradition. Made by the renowned silversmith George Unite, the piece is fully hallmarked for Birmingham, 1857. Unite produced an impressive range of high-quality silverware, and this item is an excellent example of his work. Specifications: Weight: 33.12 g Height: 9.3 cm Condition: There is a small, almost imperceptible dent on the base, and the tip of the finial is slightly tilted. Otherwise, the piece is in excellent condition. Please study the accompanying photographs carefully, as they form an integral part of this description. If you have any questions, we will be happy to answer them. The item will be shipped with full tracking and insurance. Please note that the s...
