Description

This exquisite 18th-century bobbin turned writing table is a rare and exceptional piece of craftsmanship. Made from high-quality oak, it showcases magnificent grain and a rich, deep colour that has only improved with age, giving it a beautiful patina that speaks to its history. The table is supported by stunning bobbin turned legs, a feature that is both intricate and decorative, paired with a sturdy supporting stretcher for added strength and stability. The table features a single central drawer, providing functional storage, and it retains its original brass handles, adding a touch of authenticity and elegance. The drawer is also equipped with a key, ensuring security for your personal belongings. Below the drawer, the delicate carved detailing enhances the beauty of the piece, showcasing the attention to detail that was typical of this period. This writing table is a rare find, particularly given its distinctive size, making it a standout addition to any collection. The combination of exceptional quality, beautiful design, and excellent condition ensures that it will remain a cherished piece for many years. Ideal for anyone looking to bring a piece of 18th-century cr...
