Description

Antique Marble Fireplace with Brass Detailing This stunning antique marble fireplace is an exquisite example of timeless French design, featuring luxurious deep burgundy marble with rich veining and elegant brass accents. The piece exudes grandeur and sophistication, making it an ideal focal point for any traditional or contemporary home. The fireplace is currently located in France and would require shipping to the UK, which has been quoted at £1,000. Condition: The marble shows some minor marks, including a circular spot near the top right corner, which could be polished out by a professional. The Brass edging to plinth in first photo has been lost. There has been a discreet repair to the back left-hand corner of the top marble piece, which does not detract from its overall charm and functionality. This fireplace is perfect for those looking to bring a piece of French history into their home while appreciating its authentic patina and character. A true conversation starter and a rare find.
