Description

A late 19th century dressing table stool by James Hicks of Dublin. Having turned rails with carved roundels, the upholstered seat with original horsehair is slightly dished for extra comfort. The whole raised on fluted tapering legs with gilt decoration. Superb condition throughout. Irish, Circa 1890, Stamped J Hicks to underneath. Dimensions: Height: 58.5 cm - 23 Inches, Width: 65 cm - 25 1/5 Inches, Depth: 45.75 cm - 18 Inches James Hicks (1866-1936) The work of James Hicks, from Dublin, is the antithesis of modernism. Renowned for his use of exotic woods, astounding marquetry and a profound interest with Chippendale, Adams and Sheraton styles, Hicks opened his workshop in 1894. Worldwide royal patronage followed and the firm won many famous commissions. Early furniture reflected the 18th century Palladian style featuring decorative shells, acanthus leaves, laurel swags, and heavysset cabriole legs. Later work was classical in style and refined. Hicks won many awards - notably the Aonach Tailteann in 1928. This satinwood display cabinet won a silver medal at the Royal Dublin Society Spring show in 1934, and the satinwood table dating 1929 was one of several piec...
