Description

This Beautiful 19th century mahogany linen press showcases a beautifully moulded cornice and a pair of well-figured panel doors, providing an elegant glimpse into its thoughtfully fitted interior, which includes a convenient hanging rail. Resting on a projecting base, the piece features two short drawers over a long graduated drawer, all enriched with delicate cock beading and complemented by oak linings and brass swan-neck handles. With its bracket feet, this linen press not only stands as a testament to fine craftsmanship but is also offered in fantastic condition, free from odors or signs of woodworm. The exceptional patina highlights the natural beauty of the wood, making it a captivating addition that infuses warmth and sophistication into any home decor.
