Description

A rare and probably unique 17th Century Parquetry Oak overhanging Bureau of great colour and surface. Having three long drawers below a fitted interior. The interior is fitted with small drawers and pigeon holes with an opening well to the centre, this is fitted with secret drawers. The drawer linings are made in Oak and are in good clean original condition. The fall and top are decorated with an oak parquetry pattern and a D-mould to the outer edges. The fall is also fitted with a reading rest. The Bureau is in good condition, having only replaced brassware of the correct period.
