Description

A stylish early 20th-century pigeonhole shelving unit or sorter, constructed in dark stained pine and ply, with ninety vertical compartments arranged across six tiers. The piece has a robust, architectural presence suited to both practical and decorative use. Originally designed for institutional or office use, likely for sorting mail, stationery or documents in a warehouse, school or office setting, the utilitarian form now lends itself beautifully to modern interiors. Ideal for use as a display unit, craft organiser or distinctive shop fitting. Presented in very good condition with only some light age-related wear and a characterful patina. Structurally sound, beautifully clean and ready to place in the home. English, circa 1920. H: 116 W: 86 D: 24 cm
