Description

Edwardian inlaid mahogany writing table This Edwardian inlaid mahogany writing table was made circa 1900. The Edwardian period is known as the age of elegance and this desk is a good example of the elegant living in this period. It stands on square tapering legs with a double line of stringing down to the castors. It has one wide drawer above the kneehole and a further box drawer to each side of this. The writing surface has an inset leather that is tooled. To the rear of the top is the superstructure with 2 sets of drawers that are joined by the shelf and the lovely gilt brass cast gallery. The drawers are fitted with the original brass handles. The desk is polished to the rear and so can be set away from the wall. 107cms wide 42ins 60.5cms deep 23 3/4ins 97cms high 38ins 61cms floor to kneehole 24ins All Measurements are as accurate as possible Delivery UK mainland FREE Other destinations please contact us, and we will get a quote.
