Description

This interesting and unrestored set of four highly decorative wall lights is made from brass and copper plated. They are in the arts and crafts style and are gas wall lights which could easily be professionally converted into electric and they would look superb in a period style room. These ornate lights are stamped with the maker's name Niko and dated 1922 and are also stamped with various patent numbers. The main arm is made from a hollow square section and it retains its original wall mount, gas tap and fittings. English, circa 1922
