Description

A large George III silver plated gambling cup of cylindrical tapered form with a stepped moulded base. The body of the cup is decorated with georgian coins from 1757, 1774, 1779, and one 1807, which is possibly a replacement, as it isn't as worn as the other coins on the outside. There is a small engraving to the top of the cup with a beaked griffin type beast, the interior of the cup is also silvered, and when the cup is tipped upside down it reveals a glass plate which houses three georgian dice. Overall the cup is in excellent condition and the silver is all still intact.
